Description	India boasts of the title of the 'Land of Festivals' owing to its rich cultural diversity. Consider any of the states and cities, you will always find people busy in preparing for some or the other festivals celebrated in India. Not just does the festivities give a glimpse of the culture of the country, they help the participants to enjoy various activities. Dancing, eating, drinking, concerts, fairs, games etc. raise the fun quotient. Allured by the charm of the Indian fiesta, even foreigners plan a tour to India during a specific period and return overwhelmed after merrymaking. Although the myriad of festivals celebrated in the country may signify different things, they have one thing in common that they are all spectacles to behold. Various types of art festivals and culture festivals are celebrated in India such as national, seasonal, religious, etc. Each festival has its own significance and teachings.

Description	Yoga is an ancient physical, mental, and spiritual practice that originated in India. The origin of the word "yoga" is from Sanskrit, which means "to unite". On June 21, it was recognised by the United Nations. Yoga has gained tremendous popularity not only in India but across the globe. It marks an opportunity to spread awareness about the benefits of yoga. Yoga is said to be more than just an exercise for those who practice it on a daily basis. As per the United Nations, yoga stands as an emblem for creating balance and harmony. When yoga is applied to communities and societies, it offers a path to sustainable living.

Description	Kho kho is a traditional Indian sport that dates back to ancient India.[1][2] It is the second-most popular traditional tag game in the Indian subcontinent after kabaddi. Kho kho is played on a rectangular court with a central lane connecting two poles which are at either end of the court. During the game, nine players from the chasing team (attacking team) are on the field, with eight of them sitting (crouched) in the central lane, while three runners from the defending team run around the court and try to avoid being touched. Each sitting player on the chasing team faces the opposite direction of their adjacent teammates.
